

Tipp City... "It's Personal"

Recognizing Unsung Heroes

LEGACY DONORS

Patrick and Pamela Hale wanted to find a way to support the dedicated staff at the Tipp City Exempted Village Schools and the Tipp City Police Department. Their solution was establishing a legacy fund through the Tipp City Foundation whose proceeds will provide support to these staff members for education, enrichment, morale and wellness.

The Hales are no strangers to the community and what it offers. Pamela is a nearly lifelong Tipp City resident with a passion for acts of kindness while Patrick's activities have included serving as the city's mayor. Both have a desire to show appreciation to those who serve the community.

"Teachers don't get paid what they are worth. Police officers face difficult challenges every day," the Hales said.

Pamela Hale has served the community through the Mum Festival as its president and committee chair, popcorn chair for the Boy Scouts, New Path Ministries board member and chair for the schools' Destination Imagination. She currently is secretary of the Tipp City Seniors and president of her own non-profit, Little Kindness.

Patrick also has served as Mum Festival president, participating on that committee approximately 20 years, ran the home clock for the Red Devils' home football games for 15 years and was the announcer for a number of years at home high school basketball games. He also has served as a Cub Scout Leader and Destination Imagination coach along with coach for baseball, soccer and basketball. Patrick was on the Tipp City Council for 12 years, serving as president for four years and mayor for four years.

Pamela is a Tippecanoe High School graduate, holds a master's degree in acquisition management and retired after 38 years in information technology working for the Department of Defense at Wright Patterson Air Force Base.

Patrick holds a bachelor's degree in physical education and a degree in Biblical Studies from World Video Bible School. He worked 25 years in the restaurant business including owning a Dairy Queen in Dayton and now is a property manager over 34 buildings in three cities.

Their children are Ryan (Hannah) and Mia (Mackenzie) Hale.

The Hales were pleased to select the Tipp City Foundation to receive their legacy gift.

"The Tipp City Foundation has a reputation of doing great things for the community. We have admired the choices they have made on distributions," they said.
