

Tipp City... "It's Personal"

Compassion for our Community

LEGACY DONORS

Scott and Muffet Andrews want to help faith-based organizations in Miami County assist those who need a lift in their lives.

To achieve that goal, they have established legacy gifts through their estates. These estate gifts will go into the Community Compassion Fund, already established in 2023, to distribute money through nonprofits with a focus on helping people find love, hope and needed assistance.

The Andrews explained, "We chose to make these arrangements with the Tipp City Foundation because it is focused on meeting the needs in our community. The Foundation's history, growth record and responsible leadership gave us confidence that our philanthropic vision would be fulfilled after our lifetimes."

"Our parents grew up during the depression years, fathers served in WW2, came home to marry and start their careers and families. They instilled and modeled the values of living generously, loving others and serving God through church and community," the Andrews said. "We were taught to tithe to our community and church financially, and through physical service."

Scott Andrews was born and raised in Farmerstown in Holmes County, Ohio. Muffet Andrews is from West Farmington in Trumbull County, Ohio.

The two met while attending The Ohio State University and married following graduation.

While at OSU, Scott Andrews was part of the Buckeyes football team and served as the head manager to Coach Woody Hayes, who also taught the importance of serving, paying forward and helping others. Scott is a graduate of OSU, where he studied agriculture/ruminant (animal) nutrition and also holds an MBA from Northwestern University. He has made his career in the animal nutrition business, and continues today as part of CSA Animal Nutrition, based in Dayton.

Muffet holds a degree in allied medical professions. She worked in the field for 10 years until the birth of the couple's oldest daughter when she chose to become a full-time mom and homemaker. She has served at the New Path Food Pantry in Tipp City for more than 20 years.

The couple lived in Ashland, Ohio; Mason City, Iowa; and Naperville, Illinois, before moving to Tipp City to fulfill a desire to raise their daughters, ages three and eight at the time, in a "small town" environment.

"The community of Tipp City with its culture, schools, churches and friendly people matched our goals, and we loved it as soon as we discovered it. Our daughters both graduated from Tippecanoe High School and enjoyed support from the community throughout their school years in Tipp City," Scott and Muffet said. "The estate gifts are our way of 'paying forward' to future generations in Miami County."
